Have Solons Elect Me Governor, Talmadge Requests of Georgians

Says He Prefers Vote by People

By JOHN COURIC

Declaring he wished a special election could settle the present gubernatorial succession muddle, Candidate Herman Talmadge yesterday promised to sponsor a constitutional amendment providing for such election in the event of another Governor-Elect's death.

Meanwhile, Talmadge was shown gaining last night in a poll of legislators.

Talmadge's statement was issued from his campaign headquarters here, while almost simultaneously Rep. Charles L. Gowen, of Brunswick, who is a Thompson supporter, dismissed a suggestion by a Talmadge follower calling for a special election now.

Replying to the suggestion of Rep. Fred Hand, of Mitchell County, Gowen, who represents Glynn County, declared at Brunswick:

"I am amazed to hear that Fred Hand wants a special election to choose a Governor. In the first place, neither the county-unit system nor the white primary rules would apply to such an election. In the second place the people spoke in no uncertain terms when they created the office of Lieutenant Governor to take care of such an emergency."

The General Assembly may vote on whether it wishes Talmadge or some other candidate to fill the place left by the late Governor-elect. No vote can be cast by the legislators for Thompson. However, if the General Assembly declared a person no longer living is the rightful nominee, Gov. Arnall would remain in office because he would have no successor. If this happened, Gov. Arnall would resign, permitting Thompson to become Governor.

Both Hand and Gowen are candidates for Speaker of the State House of Representatives.

Talmadge's position on the new gubernatorial race was contained in his first formal statement in which he called upon Georgians to request their legislators to name him Governor when the General Assembly convenes in January.

Top leaders in the organization of the late Gov.-Elect Eugene Talmadge announced Herman Talmadge's candidacy Thursday, but Talmadge's position as a candidate was not formally stated until yesterday.

"I wish the law provided for a special election in which the people could decide whom they wish for their Governor," Talmadge said. "The law does not make such provisions and it is mandatory in this case for the General Assembly to elect a Governor from the two highest candidates in life who will not decline the election. If I am elected Governor, I will request the General Assembly to pass a Constitutional amendment providing for a special election immediately after any vacancy in the Governor's chair, when such vacancy occurs prior to the inauguration of the Governor-Elect."

After Talmadge issued his statement, Roy V. Harris, of Augusta, who is directing his campaign, said 120 legislators "definitely" are pledged to vote for the son

Air Wreck Found; All 12 Dead

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 27—(AP)—A Western Airlines plane missing since Christmas Eve was found smashed and partly burned against a mountain peak Friday with all nine passengers and three crew members dead.

The wreckage was discovered on 6,375-foot Cuyapaipe Peak in the Laguna Mountains about 50 miles east of here. It was 100 feet from the top.

This is approximately the location of the "blaze" or sky "glow" which a number of persons reported seeing at about the time the transport disappeared after giving its last position over the mountains at 10:09 p. m. (EST).

The pilot of another passenger plane reported that night that he had actually seen the craft afire, but stormy weather had delayed locating the spot.

Coroner's aides were dispatched to the scene, in an area of rugged peaks fearing up from the Imperial Valley. Sheriff's deputies telephoned it would be impossible to bring the bodies out before Saturday.

The plane was en route from the Imperial Valley to San Diego on a short triangle route which includes Los Angeles, when it crashed. The sky was overcast with first clouds of an approaching storm.

Ed Neil, a San Diego Tribune-Sun photographer, who was with the party finding the wreckage, said he counted 10 bodies, two badly burned.

Those aboard the ill-fated plane were Capt. George Burton Sprado, 38, the pilot, of Santa Monica, Calif.; Richard John Weber, 25, the first officer, of Deer Lodge, Mont.; Stewardess Glenda Mae Wade, 25, of Hollywood, and the following passengers:

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Ford, of El Centro; Miss Adeline Jones, of Holtville; A. L. Adams, of Los Angeles; W. H. Price, of Beverly Hills; Edgar Martin, of Holtville; Fred Bright, of El Centro; L. Barlow, of Los Angeles, and Miss V. Hanet, of El Centro.

The wings and tail section were the only large portions of the plane intact. Charred, twisted wreckage was scattered over a wide area on the hillside, where snow, sleet, driving rain and fog shrouded the tragedy.

American Ship Signals 'Sinking, Desire Help,' Off Norwegian Coast

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 27—(INS)—The Danish coastal radio station late Friday heard an SOS from an American steamer identified as the "Ammerar," which said:

"Sinking. Desire immediate help."

Reports from Southern Norway said distress signals also were heard there and it is believed the crew has taken to lifeboats.

Additional Gas-Tax Refunds to State Farmers

Georgia farmers shortly will begin receiving a $33,000 delayed Christmas gift from the State in the form of gasoline tax refunds. The rebates are at the rate of five cents a gallon on all gasoline used for farm purposes as provided by the last Legislature.

The latest checks were placed in the mails yesterday, bringing total refunds of $204,000 since the plan went into operation about the middle of the year.

Woodrow Tucker, Director of the Refund Unit of the Revenue Department, praised farmers for co-operating in the refunds, saying here had been "little abuse or attempted abuse" of the refund law.

Inquests Set in Poison Liquor Deaths

Evidence in connection with the deaths of seven Negroes following a Christmas party with what police termed a "poisonous" intoxicating drink, will be presented to a Fulton County Coroner's Jury Tuesday.

Earlier reports said eight Negroes had died after reportedly drinking a concoction of corn whiskey and paint thinner, but Grady Hospital officials later said a duplication of one name amended the figure to seven.

Meanwhile, police were holding three Negroes on suspicion of murder in connection with the seven deaths after detectives said an investigation had disclosed the dead Negroes had bought the allegedly deadly drink at a Decatur Street house for 15 cents a jigger.

The Negroes held are Cornelius Reid, 39, and Claude Mims, alias Nelms, 39, both of 276½ Decatur St., and Frank Lee Johnson, 32, of 267½ Decatur St.

Gov. Edge Refuses To Seize Struck Plants

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 27—(UP)—Gov. Walter E. Edge refused Friday to seize two struck plants of the Public Service Electric & Gas Company, telling both sides to get together and settle the new dispute which threatened the gas supply for the metropolitan area of Newark.

The strike was called by the International Chemical Workers, Union late Thursday night to support demands for higher wages at the Newark and Harrison plants. A few hours earlier, walkouts by maintenance workers were settled in similar plants of the Company at Jersey City and New Brunswick.

Foundation Gift Assures Columbus Clinic

Constitution State News Service.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 27—A second gift of $15,000 by the W. C. and Sarah Bradley Foundation "assured" the construction of a cancer clinic for the City Hospital, Board Chairman Emmett Cartledge, Jr., said Friday.

A similar gift of $15,000 was made by the Bradley Foundation in May, 1945, Hospital Administrator Robert M. Murphy said. The $30,000 addition to the main floor of the City Hospital will include an examination room, metabolism room, two office rooms, an X-ray department and waiting rooms.

Report Columbus Food Prices Down a Third

Constitution State News Service.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 27—Food prices have dropped as much as one-third in the last 30 days, Columbus wholesale dealers declared Friday. The manager of the Armour & Company plant reported the price of pure lard down 20 cents per pound; pork loins and shoulders 10 cents per pound and eggs 15 cents a dozen.

A chain grocery manager reported butter down 15 cents since last Fall. The Wilson Company Manager reported pork decreased 20 cents a pound, cheese 15 and 20 and butter 18 and 20 cents less per pound.

Cries of Fire Cause Near Stampede at Theater

Patrons of the Capitol theater put on a vanishing act when shouts of fire were heard throughout the house last night.

Tommy Reed, general manager of the theater, said the shout was heard in the theater gallery after someone had discovered a smoking cigarette in one of the sand-filled ash stands.

A quick check of the entire theater by employees, Reed said, showed there was no fire, and the picture continued without any interruption. Many of the theater's patrons, after reaching the foyer, returned to their seats to see the remainder of the performance.

Patrolman I. P. Jones described the exodus as a near stampede, saying one or two of the patrons were knocked down, but no one required medical attention, he said.

Italian Mob Fired On; 15 Casualties

ROME, Dec. 27—(AP)—Police and soldiers opened fire Friday in Bari on rioters attempting to storm the City Hall at the peak of a tumultuous demonstration against food shortages. Press dispatches said at least one man was killed and 14 wounded, four seriously.

In Rome flying squadrons of police struck at the gigantic black market on which thousands depend for their daily needs and from which thousands more derive a livelihood. The first day of the drive, preceded by a Ministry of the Interior "no-quarter" order, caused little impression, however. Friday night bread again was being sold openly in the illegal mart. No arrests were made.

Report Peddler Killed by Train

Fulton County Police reported that a 57-year-old peddler tentatively identified as Bill Cook, living at the Salvation Army Home on Luckie Street, had been instantly killed by a Southern Railway train about 2:30 p. m. yesterday near the Armour packing plant. Patrolmen said he apparently had been sitting on the track eating lunch without seeing the train coming.

Warden Told To Accept 51-Year Fugitive

DES MOINES, Dec. 27—(AP)—The State Board of Control said Friday it had instructed Warden Percy Lainsom to "accept" 77-year-old Charles Hart as an inmate at the State Penitentiary at Fort Madison.

Hart surrendered voluntarily the day before Christmas and said he escaped from the Iowa Penitentiary in 1895. He arrived penniless from Excelsior Springs, Mo., and refused an offer of money and freedom over Christmas.

Say Blum May Fly to U. S. in Saar Dispute

PARIS, Dec. 27—(AP)—Reports persisted Friday night that Leon Blum, Socialist interim President-Premier, might fly to the United States to confer with Secretary of State Byrnes on the French-American dispute over the Saarland. The Foreign Office said it knew nothing of such a plan.

French establishment of a customs barrier between the Saar and the rest of Germany and reports that factories elsewhere in the French Zone were being stripped for the benefit of the Saar have disturbed American occupation authorities.

Wadsworth Considered For Speaker

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(UP) The possibility of a compromise candidate in the bitterly contested House majority leadership race arose Friday night from rank and file Republicans who fear the fight will endanger party unity in the new Congress.

The name most frequently mentioned for the post by the compromise advocates was that of Rep. James W. Wadsworth, Republican, New York, but other names were being tossed around.

Republican leaders stressed there has been no "deal" to bypass Reps. Charles A. Halleck, Republican, Indiana, and Clarence J. Brown, Republican, Ohio, the leading contenders. And they insisted that no one has even sounded out Wadsworth. In the past, they pointed out, the wealthy New Yorker has not been disposed to accept posts of heavy responsibility. He has been content to play the role of "elder statesman," with heavy stress on foreign affairs.

But compromise advocates had other names to present in case Wadsworth should refuse to accept the job. They include Reps. Leslie C. Arends, Illinois; Jesse P. Wolcott, Michigan; Charles A. Wolverton, New Jersey, and Walter C. Ploeser, Missouri.

The compromise talk was motivated by the political controversy that burst last week when Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, Republican, Ohio, castigated New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for intervening in the leadership contest. Jenkins

5 Die In Crash Of Private Plane In Mississippi

UNION, Miss., Dec. 27—(AP)—A private plane en route from Arkansas to Florida crashed and burned near here Friday, killing the five occupants who were returning home after a Christmas holiday trip.

Commissioner of Public Safety C. R. Bradley in Jackson, Miss., said that telephone communication with Panama City, Fla., supplied information which identified the victims as Mr. and Mrs. Willis F. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brannon and their four-year-old son, Terry. They had been visiting the Brannon family home at Conway, Ark., Bradley said. All of the bodies were badly burned.

Board To Probe Fire Department For Negligence

Members of the Atlanta Board of Firemasters will launch an investigation Jan. 15, to see whether or not the Atlanta Fire Department has been negligent in enforcing a fire-prevention and safety ordinance passed by Council in 1938.

The Board took this action last night after Councilman James E. Jackson had served notice on fellow members he would ask Council to investigate the Atlanta Fire Department and see if they have made any efforts to enforce an ordinance passed in 1938 giving the Fire Chief and the City Building Inspector the right to condemn any building they find unsafe.

He scored the Fire Department for alleged laxity in enforcement of regulations, and challenged the Fire Department Chief to say the Winecoff Hotel was a safe structure with the open stair wells.

Assistant City Attorney J. C. Murphy told members of the Board the Building Inspector had complete power over the construction of a building, but after its completion, it was the duty of the Fire Department to enforce safety regulations.

"I am not criticizing firemen for the manner in which they fought the Winecoff blaze," Jackson said. "They did a wonderful job of fire fighting, and I am surprised there were not more than 119 people killed. Heroic work on the part of the firemen saved many lives, but I am criticizing the Department as a whole for not rigidly enforcing the 1938 ordinance."

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27—(AP)—Film Actor Burt Lancaster announced Friday that he and Norma Anderson, former USO entertainer in Italy, will be married at Yuma, Ariz., Saturday.

PILOT CRACKS UP IN GIRL'S YARD

ATHENS, Dec. 27—(AP)—Hubert Smith, aviation student, flew his plane over his girl friend's home, intending to wave to her. The plane stalled and spun to the ground in the girl friend's front yard.

Smith was taken to a hospital suffering from face and neck lacerations and a slight brain concussion. His condition was reported good Friday.

Drop Bar to Bilbo In Favor of Boot

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—Republicans Friday dropped plans to try to bar Sen. Bilbo, Democrat, Mississippi, from taking his seat Jan. 3 in favor of a campaign designed to oust him later.

The strategy was considered at a closed-door session of the Republican Steering Committee but a final decision was postponed pending the meeting Monday of the entire Republican Senate delegation.

A Senator who attended Friday's committee meeting reported the anti-Bilbo strategists have decided that he can be ousted by majority vote after the new members have been sworn in and the Republicans attain their 51-to-45 majority.

Only 59 men will have taken the oath and be fully qualified Senators when the eightieth Congress convenes at noon Jan. 3. Of these, 31 are Democrats and 28 Republicans. Thus, if voting followed party lines, the Republicans would be better off to wait. New and re-elected members are sworn in four at a time in alphabetical order and Bilbo would be in the first batch.

The effort to oust the 69-year-old Mississippian probably will be based on one or more of three allegations looked into by investigating committees:

1. That he solicited contributions from war contractors.

2. That he received money from a narcotics addict after getting the Narcotics Bureau to waive objections to supplying the addict with a daily morphine ration.

3. That he tried to intimidate Negroes to keep them from voting in last Summer's primary when he was renominated over four opponents.

Sen. Ferguson, of Michigan, the lone Republican on the War Investigating Subcommittee which looked into Bilbo's relations with war contractors, telegraphed Chairman Mead, Democrat, New York, Friday asking that the hearing be reopened Monday on the narcotics phase.

Ferguson said he wants to get direct testimony on the narcotics angle from two doctors—A. J. Podesta, of Vicksburg, Miss., and James Logan, of Natchez — and from John Carr, of Natchez, described in previous testimony as a narcotics addict.

Dr. Harry J. Anslinger, head of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, testified that after a conference with Bilbo over a letter Bilbo had received from Podesta, he wrote that the Narcotics Bureau had no objection to Logan prescribing two grains of morphine a day for Carr. Anslinger explained that the narcotic law permits such a ration for addicts whose lives would be in danger without it.

Later, Anslinger testified, he was told by a Federal agent that Carr sent Bilbo $1,500 through Podesta.

Bilbo denied receiving any money for such a service although he said he did receive a contribution from Podesta for a church parsonage fund he was collecting.

Parliamentary experts said Bilbo would continue to draw pay as a Senator until such time as the Senate might declare his seat vacant. If he were ousted, the Senate would adopt a resolution declaring his seat vacant and notify the Governor of Mississippi.

Un-American Investigator Chief Fired for Red-Report Release

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(UP) Ernie Adamson, Chief Investigator for the House Committee on Un-American Activities, got a dismissal notice from his new Republican boss Friday but let it be known he planned to resign anyway.

Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, Republican, New Jersey, who is slated to become Committee Chairman when the Republicans take over Congress Jan. 3, issued a formal statement promising to fire Adamson for releasing an unauthorized report charging that American Communists hope to overthrow the Government through a general strike.

He said the Investigator and Chief Counsel had tried to "wreck" the Committee and "will not draw one more day's pay if I become Chairman."

Adamson, in Pittsburgh on "personal business," said he was not concerned by Thomas' threat since he had planned for some time "to terminate my connection with the Committee after the first of the year."

He pointed out that the Congressional reorganization bill, effective with the new Congress, makes no provision for Committee Counsel and would have to be amended for him to remain in the job.

"I have been approached by Congressional leaders and asked if I desired to have them introduce such a resolution," he said. "I told them that I did not desire it."

Rep. John E. Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, one of the Committee's most influential members, declined to comment directly on the Thomas-Adamson controversy, but backed up the Committee Counsel on the Communist report.

He said the nation would be "shocked" if it realized the extent to which Communists have infiltrated the Government, education and channels of information and communications. As a matter of fact, he said, "the half has not been told," and the Committee's final report on un-American activities will be "even stronger" than Adamson's tentative report.

Rankin said he didn't want to be drawn into the fight between Thomas and Adamson.

"I can't control the Republican majority," he said. "He (Thomas) can select whomever he wants for Chief Counsel."

Another Committee member, Rep. John R. Murdock, Democrat, Arizona, offered some oblique criticism of Adamson, although he would not comment directly on the report.

He said he had noted particularly Adamson's charge that some labor organizations were being influenced by foreign-born persons who hoped to disrupt American industry by strikes.

Murdock said that any such trend, if proved, should be a matter of serious concern to the nation and to Congress, but he cautioned against any hastily-considered action.

Congress, he said, should not overlook what may be more basic causes of labor unrest in its zeal to expose Communists in the labor movement.

Murder Angle Dropped as Coroner Finds Woman Died of Alcoholism

By DuPONT WRIGHT

A Coroner's jury found last night found that Mrs. Cereta Thomas, pretty young statistical clerk whose body was found in a lonely spot off Chattahoochee Avenue Thursday morning, died of acute alcoholism.

Coroner Ed L. Almand said an autopsy showed Mrs. Thomas had been under the influence of liquor for several days.

The verdict brought tears to the eyes of Thomas Gary and Clyde Jenkins, both residing on Bolton Road, who had been arrested on charges of suspicion of murder. Fulton Police Capt. W. L. Duncan and Asst. Chief E. G. Fitzgerald, who had arrested the two following their admission they had gone with the girl to the field where her body was found and had left her there Christmas night, immediately released them. The young men, both Pacific war veterans and employed as carpenters' helpers, said they had met Mrs. Thomas on Forsyth Street and, after taking several drinks with her, took her to the field.

Gary said he left her with Jenkins, and Jenkins said he left her alone when she refused to leave. He said he thought she would find her way back to Chattahoochee Avenue and catch a ride home.

They were arrested when a motorist, attracted by the excitement attendant to the discovery of the body, told Police Capt. J. V. Davis he had picked up a man near the scene shortly after midnight Wednesday. This clue led to the arrest of the two men. From the first, both emphatically denied harming her.

Coroner Almand said bruises on Mrs. Thomas' body were only superficial and the cold had made them appear worse, giving rise to the suspicion she had been murdered.

Hike Granted On Telegrams

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—The Federal Communications Commission Friday authorized the Western Union Telegraph Company to increase its present message charges about 10 percent.

It approved for an indefinite period an increase of 20 percent above the rates effective last June 12 when a 10 percent increase was granted.

Mathematically, that works out to an increase of slightly less than 10 percent over the present charges. Western Union had asked for an increase of 15 percent above existing rates.

U. S. To Reserve Rights Held in Antarctic Area

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson said today the United States was reserving all rights it may have in the Antarctic.

He told a news conference that this government has never formally asserted any claims in the southern continent, such claims have been asserted in its behalf by American citizens. He noted that this government has never recognized claims by other nations in the Antarctic.

Acheson's remarks had followed an announcement that R. Adm. Richard E. Byrd will sail from Norfolk, Va., Jan. 2 for his fourth trip to southern polar regions.

U. S. Liner for Sale

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—The George Washington, a 700-foot liner, which transported Allied fighting men in two world wars, was offered for sale by the Maritime Commission Friday. Bids will be received until Jan. 6.

Says Spanish Parties Split Over Charge of Coup d'Etat

MADRID, Dec. 27—(AP)—An informed source said Friday that negotiations looking toward Monarchist-Republican co-operation in the event of the downfall of the Franco regime had broken down over a Leftist charge that the Monarchists were plotting a coup d'etat.

This source, who is close to both Monarchist and Republicans and in a position to follow their talks, said the conversations were an outgrowth of London moves reported to have been started last week under the sponsorship of the British Embassy here.

The breakdown of such negotiations would point up a chief source of strength for Generalissimo Franco—the friction among various sections of anti-Franco opinion. However, the informant, who cannot be quoted by name, said the Republicans and Monarchists were not so far apart as the breakdown would seem to indicate.

The informant said that as a result of talks between a Syndicalist delegate of the "Democratic Alliance" with Don Juan, Pretender to the Spanish Throne, and Jose Maria Gil Robles, leading exiled Rightist, a course of action was agreed upon and a pact was signed. This pact would have bound Republicans and Monarchists to co-operation pending elections, in the event either the Monarchy or the Republic should be established in Spain "under circumstances now unforeseeable."

The Syndicalist signed as a representative of the Alliance, which includes Communists, Anarcho-Syndicalists, Socialists and Republicans. The source said the Syndicalist delegate believed he had won the support of Premier Jose Giral's exiled Republican Government after a visit to Paris and he had found Don Juan in Lisbon favorably impressed.

Baruch Issues Blunt Warning On Atomic Veto

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 27 (INS)—Bernard M. Baruch bluntly warned the Atomic Energy Commission's Drafting Committee late Friday that he will not recommend any treaty to the United States Senate on Atomic control which includes the veto on punishment.

The venerable chief of the American group in the Atomic Energy Commission delivered his virtual ultimatum to the 11 other nations in a "take it or leave it" declaration when opposition to use of the word "veto" cropped up during the final drafting stage.

Baruch pulled no punches, and made it clear that the United States expected a draft report which leaves no room f. quibbling on procedure or principles.

The Baruch table-pounding broke loose as a counterattack to French Alexander Parodi's tacit contention that while the principle of vetoless inspection and control is acceptable, the use of the word "vta" can only lead to dissension among the powers.

Sir Alexander Cadogan swung to the French delegate's support, but the Australians quickly rallied to Baruch's.

The debate became more heated in the late afternoon hours, ending the smooth and quiet work of the earlier day.

Nobody Claims Child Found in Chicago Hallway

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 — (AP) — Nobody appeared in Juvenile Court Friday to claim five-year-old Judy Gateling who was abandoned in a South Side building hallway Dec. 5.

Judge Frank Bicek set Jan. 31 for a final hearing on disposition of the child and said he would declare her a ward of the Court if her parents or relatives fail to appear then.

At an earlier hearing, Judge Bicek said it had been established "almost positively" that the little girl was the daughter of Mrs. Betty Gateling, estranged wife of Glenn Gateling, a railroad worker employed in Milwaukee.

Last week, Juvenile Home authorities said they had received a letter from Mrs. Marie Sanborn, who gave her address as 465 South Drive, Miami Springs, Fla., asking that the child be sent to her for care and stating that she was Judy's grandmother.

Mrs. Sanborn did not appear in court Friday.

of the late Governor-Elect. Harris said 130 votes are needed.

Meanwhile, an Associated Press poll of legislators showed Talmadge gaining on Lt.-Gov.-Elect M. E. Thompson insofar as the legislators' choices for Governor are concerned. First returns from the poll gave Thompson a heavy lead.

Returns from 92 Senators and Representatives, according to the Associated Press, showed 43 for Thompson, 24 for Talmadge, 22 undecided, and three advocates of a special election.

In Valdosta last night, former Gov. E. D. Rivers gave a dinner for Lt. Gov.-Elect and Mrs. Thompson, but said there was "absolutely no political significance." Rivers explained he had arranged the dinner, and a reception preceding it at Lakeland, before Eugene Talmadge's death, and had invited Mr. and Mrs. Herman Talmadge. The latter, he said, had accepted, but now were unable to attend.

Besides advocating a new constitutional amendment, Talmadge in his statement declared:

"Eugene Talmadge, my father, gave his life fighting for those principles which he believed to be best for the people of Georgia. This year the solid and patriotic people of Georgia voted for the undying principles which he espoused. These principles are: (1) The preservation of the Democratic white primary; (2) the preservation of the county-unit system; (3) the expansion of the State services, which includes a 50 percent raise in the teachers' salaries, increased medical facilities for counties, building of State highways and post roads, and other State services which would inure to the benefit of all of Georgia's people.

"The people of the State are now in danger of losing the fruits of that hard-won victory. The same forces that made such desperate efforts to defeat the will of the people of the State are now trying to defeat the will of the people by taking advantage of Talmadge's death.

"I feel that it is my duty to my father, and to the people of Georgia, to try to carry on the fight for these same things for which he fought so hard and I believe the people will support me in this fight."

He also declared: "I know not what the future will hold but I am willing to offer myself unreservedly in this fight for those principles so necessary for Georgia's future greatness.

"I hope all friends of my father as well as all those who believe in the principles for which he gave his life and all my friends will rally to my side and make this great fight yours.

"I shall fight to the end for those things for which, if carried out, would make Georgia the great State she deserves to be and the great commonwealth which will serve all Georgians in a manner that will make us all proud that we espoused those principles which will lend to the greatness and happiness for the greatest number of Georgia citizens.

"To this great cause I devote myself wholeheartedly.

"I call upon the people of Georgia to contact their representatives in the General Assembly and inform them whom they desire as their Governor the next four years."

INDIANS VS. OHIO

141-Year-Old Realty Deal Kicks Back

DETROIT, Dec. 27—(AP)—A Detroit lawyer known to the Indians as Chief Onee-Wash-Ka-Chief who sees all over the land—is looking hard at Cedar Point, Ohio, one piece of land the Indians want back.

Atty. Peter P. Gilbert offered his services to the Cherokees Friday in response to a plea from Tom-Pee-Saw, a tribesman from Parsons, Kan., who believes the Redmen came out on the wrong end of the deal involving Ohio Territory in 1805.

At that time, Tom-Pee-Saw charges, the Pottowatime and Ottawa tribes agreed to sell 3,840,000 acres of land, now constituting 10 counties in Northern Ohio, to the British-owned Connecticut Land Company and the United States.

The Indians were to get $6,825 cash and from then on $1,000 a year. But, insists Tom-Pee-Saw, Cedar Point, now the site of an amusement park, never was in the boundaries of that purchase—Ohio just annexed it.

Gilbert, whose previous studies of Redskin affairs earned him his Indian name, has agreed to look into the matter. If the Indians' claims are valid, Tom-Pee-Saw hinted, there may be plenty of wampum available for a lawyer's fee.

$850,000,000 Total Passed In Unions' Claims

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The rapidly ascending total of back pay and damages asked of the nation's industry in retroactive portal-to-portal law suits passed the $850,000,000 mark Friday.

Suits were filed in Pittsburgh by the CIO United Automobile Workers asking $53,400,000 of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation and Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corporation.

A suit begun in Chicago by the same union asked $4,000,000 for employes of the W. A. Jones Foundry and Machine Company.

Officials of numerous unions worked on additional claims which some industry leaders said might total between five and six billion dollars. The claims are based upon the Supreme Court's ruling that workers are entitled to pay for all time spent on employers' premises of necessity in connection with their jobs.

UNIONS' POSITION

Meanwhile, union officials declared that their organizations did not intend to participate directly in funds collected from their members to finance the suits, or to share in possible back pay or damage awards resulting from the actions.

Several unions were canvassing their members for individual support of the claims proceedings, collecting 50 cents from each member and obtaining signatures on card-sized agreements stipulating that 10 per cent of the money collected as the result of portal pay suits was to be retained by union attorneys.

A spokesman for the CIO Steelworkers in Chicago said the money thus collected would go to pay attorneys' fees, and "the union doesn'to get a cent of it."

A PREDICTION

Meanwhile, in Washington, two influential Republican legislators predicted that Congress would act quickly to limit the portal-to-portal pay suits.

Rep. Wolcott, of Michigan, said distress signals from businessmen are so strong "we'll have to do something about it." Wolcott told reporters that members of Congress have been flooded with mail, telephone calls and telegrams from businessmen protesting that payment of sums involved would ruin them.

Rep. Michener, also from Michigan, said he expected reintroduction of a bill which would limit collection of back portal-to-portal pay to one year.

Montgomery To Visit Moscow Early in 1947

LONDON, Dec. 27—(AP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, will visit Moscow early in 1947, the War Office announced Friday night.

The announcement said the visit would be in response to an invitation from Prime Minister Stalin, extended during the Big Three Conference in Potsdam in 1945. The invitation was renewed last October by Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsky, Chief of the Soviet General Staff.

Montgomery, who visited the United States last September, accepted because he was "anxious to acquaint himself with the military life of the Red Army," the announcement said.

Polish Military Court Dooms Priest to Death

WARSAW, Dec. 27—(AP)—The Rev. Boleslaw Stefanski, Catholic priest accused of leading an underground terrorist band, was sentenced to death by a military court Friday.

Col. Jan Rzepecki, described by the Government as former commander-in-chief of the underground organization known as the NSZ, will go on trial before the tribunal Tuesday. The Government asserts Rzepecki was in the service of Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, exiled commander of the wartime Polish Second Corps in Italy.

Jenkins charged that Dewey's announced backing of Halleck constituted executive interference in a legislative function. He said the contest was becoming a fight over the 1948 Republican presidential nomination between Dewey and Sen. Robert A. Taft, Republican, Ohio.

The Halleck backers have claimed Brown is in reality the Taft candidate for the post.

Some Republicans said the dispute has ruined Halleck's chances — which last week were considered excellent—to win the leadership fight. At the same time, Brown was reportedly considering withdrawal from the contest.

The attitude of many GOP House members was summed up in a formal statement by Rep. Clare E. Hoffman, Republican, Michigan. He warned all presidential candidates to keep their hands off the House.

"There are candidates for majority leadership other than Brown and Halleck," Hoffman said. "It might be well for the Republican Party organization to shelve both of them, select one of the others; then proceed with the all-important legislative task which the people delegated to them on Nov. 5, last."

Rep. Everett M. Dirksen, Republican, Illinois, is the fourth avowed candidate for the post. But it is generally believed he does not control enough House votes to influence the outcome.

Ex-Staff Chief Urges Training To Prevent War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—Gen. Peyton C. March, War Department Chief of Staff during World War I, called Friday on his 82d birthday for universal military training of American youth as the surest safeguard against another war.

Erect and alert despite his advanced age, the retired officer met reporters at his home and told them he took a pessimistic view of the United Nations as a guarantor of world peace.

"You can't stop war by legislation or pacts," he said grimly. "The League of Nations and the Kellogg-Briand Treaty to outlaw war showed that."

March suggested that the United States keep its secret of the atomic bomb and at the same time take into consideration a possibility that Great Britain might some day be a foe prepared to use the bomb.

"Although the Russians are often pictured as the only nation ever likely to use this weapon against us, the British showed in the Amritsar massacre in India in 1919 they could shoot in cold blood."

President Truman's current proposals for universal training, March, said, are practically the same as the proposed legislation he championed as Chief of Staff 27 years ago.

"It was talked to death in Congress," he related. "This time I hope it will have a better fate. The fact that we have more effective weapons now does not affect its validity at all.

"If we had had such a pool of trained manpower in the intervening years no two nations would have dared to stir us up and we probably never would have been involved in the recent war."

Detective Is Slain; Youth, 17, Suspect

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 26—(UP)—City Detective Thomas Conaty, 34, was shot to death in his police car Thursday and later a 17-year-old youth named by police as his killer was captured by a civilian.

The youth, Danny Norris, who police said committed the slaying while on Christmas leave from a school for delinquent boys, was seized outside the home of Solomon W. Sloan in nearby Bellevue.

Sloan told police he was about to enter his car shortly before 6 p. m. when Norris popped out with a gun in each hand. Sloan said he talked with the youth, wrested the guns from him and brought him into the house. Then he notified police.

Norris was returned to Wilmington for questioning.

Tommy, Puppy Safe In Icy River Rescue

LA CROSSE, Wis., Dec. 27—(AP) A seven-year-old boy who tumbled through thin ice into the Mississippi River while trying to save his four-month-old puppy from drowning was rescued Thursday by two electric metermen who made another trip to accomplish what the youngster had failed to do.

George Bettin and Henry Loeffler, using a plank to distribute their weight, edged 40 feet out into the thin ice to rescue Tommy Tate, who was sinking under the icy water the second time, and then repeated their performance to grab the puppy by its ears when Tommy pleaded tearfully that "they try again."

Asks Abolition Of Un-American Activities Group

BOSTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—The Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union Friday called for the abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and urged Massachusetts Congressmen to work to this end.

In a statement bearing the names of many Massachusetts educators, and others, including Pres. Karl T. Compton, of Massachusetts' Institute of Technology, the Committee asserted:

"We protest the disgraceful conduct of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, and its tactics calculated to discredit loyal Americans, as typified by the outrageous treatment of Prof. Harlow Shapley.

"From its inception, the Committee has flagrantly violated civil rights. It has not discouraged un-American activities, but, by example, has encouraged them. The continuation of this Committee is an affront to all individuals who have any respect for civil liberties guaranteed us by the Bill of Rights."

Several weeks ago Shapley, noted astronomer-director of the Harvard Observatory, and Committee Chairman Rankin engaged in a heated exchange after Shapley had been called to Washington as a witness.

Among the more than 100 signers of the statement, who included manufacturers, lawyers, merchants and educators were Protestant Episcopal Bishop W. Appleton Lawrence, of Springfield; Prof. Earnest A. Hooton, of Harvard; Prof. Dean Peabody, of M. I. T.; Rev. Emory Stevens Bucke, Editor of Zion's Herald, a Methodist Weekly; Louis C. Henin, President of the Hamden County Bar Association, and Walter G. Muelder, Dean of the Boston University School of Theology.

Burgess Offered Judgeship Post

Hugh B. Burgess, City Attorney for Decatur and member of the State Highway Commission, has been offered the Superior Court judgeship of the Stone Mountain Circuit to succeeed James C. Davis, who resigned after being elected to Congress.

Burgess last night said he had not decided whether to accept the appointment tendered by Gov. Arnall. Judge Davis' resignation is effective Dec. 31.

French Continue Drive Into Southern Hanoi

HANOI, Indochina, Dec. 26—(Delayed) — (AP) — French forces fighting a Viet-Nam uprising Friday reported a continued advance into southern and southeastern parts of Hanoi, but said no important operation yet had started into the Chinese-Annamite districts.

The French described the general military situation as "satisfactory." They reported that in the Bacninh sector, some 16 miles northeast of Hanoi, they had recaptured two barracks and fortified positions on the road to Phulangthuong, about 25 miles northeast of here.

Hitchhike Robbery

COLUMBUS, Dec. 27—(AP)—R. B. Randall, 30, of Jonesboro, told Columbus police Friday a hitchhiker stuck a gun in his back near Conley, robbed him of $22 and ordered him to drive toward this city "and you won't get hurt."

Feeding World By Chemistry Seen by Scientist

BOSTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—A prediction that the world may someday feed its starving by use of radiation chemistry, the secret of photography, was made Friday by Dr. Charles F. Kettering, head scientist of General Motors, to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Radiation chemistry, also known as photosynthesis, is, he said, the method nature uses to make the earth's present food supply out of carbon dioxide of the air, and water and a few minerals.

"We know little of the process now," he declared, "but some day we may be able to reproduce it in the laboratory. Radiation chemistry fixes billions of tons of carbon wihout a test tube, Bunsen burner burette."

All this is done without expensive processes. Furthermore, Dr. Kettering pointed out, the coal and the oil also come from nature's same radiation chemistry.

But, he said, photography represents nearly all of man's use of this kind of chemistry. In industry the radiation principles are in use to only a small extent.

GOP Chairman Rejects Stassen Forum Plans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(UP) Chairman Carroll Reece, of the Republican National Committee, has rejected a proposal by GOP Presidential Candidate Harold E. Stassen that his political brainchild, the "Republican Open Forums," be made an official part of the Committee, it was revealed today.

Stassen, the only avowed presidential candidate in the field, founded the forums last April as a medium for Young Republicans to discuss national issues and "influence policy-making of the party and the nation." The former Minnesota Governor is now Chairman of the Advisory Committee.

Reece's rebuff was disclosed by Henry T. McKnight, Forums National Director, who told a news conference that Reece did not think the move would be practicable. In addition, he quoted Reece that absorption of the forums would require a very substantial addition to the Committee's budget.

The GOP Chairman praised the forums for "excellent work." McKnight said, but observed that he believed its activities could be carried on "with more freedom and less likelihood of intra-party controversy" outside the official party framework.

ALL-AMERICA TO END GRID CAREER

Jacket Hopes for Victory May Hinge on Duke's Play

By F. M. WILLIAMS
Constitution Sports Writer.

HOUSTON, Dec. 27—Paul Duke, Georgia Tech's All-American center whose line backing may be the difference in winning and losing the Oil Bowl game against St. Mary's here New Year's Day, will be winding up his football career in his fourth postseason game in five years.

Duke, 210-pound Atlantan who was a substitute in high school, has announced he will not return to Tech next season, although he has a year's eligibility under special wartime rules. And there isn't much possibility he will enter pro ball, although he's had attractive offers. He prefers to remain in Atlanta, where he will go into business.

Tech coaches are being constantly warned by supporters here about St. Mary's Herman Wedemeyer, and they figure that if Duke doesn't have one of his good days the fiery Hawaiian may be too much for the Jackets to handle.

But if big Paul is right, then Wedemeyer will be trying to run against a line backer that most coaches who've seen him play describe as the best in the business.

Duke broke into bowl football with the Tech eleven that whipped Tulsa in the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 1, 1944. He was on the club that lost in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery.

Coach Bobby Dodd brought 18 men on the trip who have had previous bowl experience, many having appeared in two New Year's Day classics.

Four are particularly anxious to make a good showing here, for they were members of the 1942 Tech team that came to Dallas and dropped a 14-7 decision to Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

That team, badly battered and nowhere near top physical condition, was the only one of four Southeastern Conference elevens to lose that day, and with three other SEC elevens in bowl tilts this season, the Jackets don't want that to happen again.

Members of the '42 eleven back this year after serving with the armed forces are Tackle Ralph Slaten, Guard Bill Healey and Halfback Pat McHugh, all of whom will start against St. Mary's, and Jim Luck, a regular on the prewar club but relegated to a reserve role this year due to injuries suffered in the war.

Other bowl veterans on the trip are Guard Luke Bowen, Orange; Tackle Deane Gaines, Orange and Sugar; Guard Frank Beall, Sugar; Quarterback Frank Broyles, Orange and Sugar; End Walter Kilzer, Orange and Sugar; Tackle and Captain Bobby Davis, Orange; Halfback George Matthews, Orange; Fullback Tommy Carpenter, Orange; Halfback Joe Brown, Orange; Tackle Rollo Phillips, Sugar; Halfback Billy Williams, Orange; Fullback Allen (Dinky) Bowen, Orange, and Fullback Johnny McIntosh, Orange.

UNDERDOG ROLE IRKS GAEL COACH

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27—(INS) — The Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's, headed for their Oil Bowl game at Houston against Georgia Tech, stopped off in Los Angeles today for a brief but rugged workout.

Coach Jimmy Phelan, irked because his team has been tabbed a 5 to 1 underdog, ordered the brisk drill at Cathedral High School.

The Gaels are expected to reach Houston Sunday.

Typists Lose To Marietta

By RUSSELL MUSGRAVE

MARIETTA, Dec. 27—The Marietta Blue Devils broke a 23-23 tie with four minutes remaining to rack up 14 more points to win a 37-27 NGIC thriller over Commercial High here tonight before a large crowd.

Coach Harrison Anderson's quintet trailed all through the first half that ended with the Typist cagers leading, 17-13. Anderson's intermission talk paid off as the Devils took an 18-17 lead. The third stanza wound up with the count knotted at 20-all.

With four minutes remaining, Capt. Charles Hipsher, one of the best forwards in the conference and a standout all night, took a long pass and started his team on a scoring spree that was too much for the startled Typists to cope with. One minute later, the Blue Devile had widened the gap by eight points and won handily.

Capt. Fred Hasty and W. A. Skelton were Commercial's top performers, while Charles Rohner and Hipsher were the bigwigs for Marietta. The win was Marietta's first NGIC victory in two starts, while Commercial was losing its second game in four conference tilts.

Hunk Anderson Gets $250 Pro League Fine

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(AP)—Hunk Anderson, line coach of the Chicago Bears, was fined $250 by Commissioner Bert Bell today for "conduct detrimental to the welfare of the National Football League."

The action resulted from Anderson's alleged criticism of the coaching and management policies of the Detroit Lions.

Doubles Win Gives U. S. Davis Cup

MELBOURNE, Dec. 27—(AP)—America's Davis Cup team ruled the amateur tennis world once more today after winning back the international trophy with a smashing victory over Australia, the country which wrested it from the United States the last time it was at stake, in 1939.

Jack Kramer and Ted Schroeder, the California buddies, clinched an American triumph in the challenge round by sweeping through the veteran Australian doubles pair, John Bromwich and Adrian Quist, in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5, 6-4.

It took the Americans just 77 minutes to hand Australia its first doubles defeat in a challenge round since 1924 and wrap up the symbol of international tennis supremacy.

So convincing was the American triumph that Bromwich immediately announced his withdrawal from the series.

Walter Pate, non-playing captain of the U. S. team, substituted Gardnar Mulloy, of Miami, Fla., for Kramer, who was to have faced Bromwich in the windup, and Gerald Patterson, the Australian captain, named Quist to fill the vacant spot on his squad.

But it was announced that the singles lineup tomorrow would send Schroeder against Quist, and Mulloy against Pails.

The final singles matches were postponed today at the last minute due to heavy rains. They will be played off on Monday.

Illini Drop Two From Bowl Squad

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 27—(AP) Coach Ray Eliot of Illinois tonight dismissed Reserve Center Lou Donoho and Sub Fullback Ray Florek from the Illini football team for "violating our 11 p. m. curfew."

Coming virtually on the eve of the Rose Bowl battle with UCLA, Eliot's order struck a second blow at the Illini's hopes of victory. Earlier today Capt.-Center Mac Benskuhas was stricken with an apparent attack of appendicitis.

Eliot said Donoho and Florek stayed out Christmas night and missed practice yesterday. The coach said they will be sent home "as soon as we can make reservations for them."

Smithie Eleven Risks Perfect Bowl Record

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Sid Scarborough's Village Smithies will be seeking to keep Tech High's letter-perfect bowl record intact when they tangle with Benton High, of St. Joseph, Mo., in the Peanut Bowl fray in Columbus on New Year's Day.

The Smithies have played in three bowl games and won them all. The Smithies trimmed Hillsborough High, in Tampa, 2-0, for the Southern championship in 1929, the year their coach, the late Gabe Tolbert, was married. They clipped Boys High in the 1942 Milk Bowl melee, 15-7, and followed up the next season by tripping the Atlanta All-Stars, 6-0, in the Milk Bowl again.

Tech High Principal W. O. Cheney announced yesterday that the school's sporty 65-piece band, under the direction of J. S. Rutan, will make the trip and put on a 10-minute, half-time stunt in addition to marching in the big parade, starting at 11 a. m. Wednesday, through downtown Columbus.

Ed Hennessy, the Peanut Bowl's General Chairman, wants 10 automobiles decorated with Tech High colors for the pre-game parade, too, and Cheney says the 10 best decorated cars to show up will be put into the procession.

P. B. (Pop) Springer's unbeaten Benton High eleven left St. Joe 32 strong yesterday and will arrive in Columbus at 10:30 p. m. today.

Meanwhile Coach Scarborough sent his charges through a rough drill here yesterday and will continue one-a-day sessions through Monday. The Smithies will depart via bus at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday and work out at the game site that afternoon.

The Smithies will be quartered at Ft. Benning, but headquarters for the Tech High party will be at the Ralston Hotel. All tickets sent to Atlanta have been sold but some still are available in Columbus, Cheney announced.

Donaldson Seen As Georgia Hope If Leg Improves

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY
Constitution Sports Editor.

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 27—The trainer, team physician and John Donaldson himself all say the speedy Bulldog right halfback will be ready to go against North Carolina in the Sugar Bowl.

But Mr. Wallace Butts, the head coach, will be satisfied if the Jesup boy is able to go at full speed for "about 10 minutes on offense" against the Tarheels.

Standing on the sidelines during today's workout, Butts watched Donaldson run up and down trying to work his bad leg back into condition.

"They all say he will be ready," Butts remarked, "but I doubt it. If he is just able to go for about 10 minutes on offense, I'll be satisfied."

Butts rightly figures his ace halfback will have a good opportunity to gain ground against North Carolina. He knows Carl Snavely, working his team about 10 miles from here, is trying to cook up some kind of special defense for Charlie Trippi and therefore the best way to combat this is for the other backs to break loose.

Donaldson, of course, is quite capable of going all the way against anybody.

His injury has been a funny one. It is a pulled muscle in the back of his leg. He is able to run, but not at full speed. Since it was hurt nearly a week before the Tech game, he hasn't been able to even run signals for a month. Such a layoff doesn't help anybody.

Of course, there is nothing wrong with "Rabbit" Smith, who will start the game in the event Donaldson isn't ready. Smith played the majority of the Tech game and did a great job. But he is frail, weighing only 155, and needs a lot of rest during the game.

The Bulldogs put in another rough day in their training for the New Year's game in New Orleans. They scrimmaged again on defense against Tarheel plays and line shift and checked up on their own defense for the kicker.

Butts announced they would conclude rough drills tomorrow and then work out lightly in sweat clothes for the remainder of the practice.

"The boys are rapidly reaching their peak," Wally said. "I don't want them to get there too early, and I have to hold off on the drills to keep their legs in top shape. I believe they will be ready for a good game."

Gray Hopes Today Ride On Gilmer

By BERT PRATHER
Constitution Sports Writer.

MONTGOMERY, Dec. 27—Hurlin' Harry Gilmer, Alabama's great passer, was the chief hope for a South victory as the All-Star squads of the North and South tapered off here today for their big Blue and Gray classic tomorrow afternoon at 3 p. m., Atlanta time, in Cramton Bowl before an expected sell-out crowd of 22,000 football fans.

Everyone, including Allyn McKeen, of Mississippi State; Dutch Meyer, of TCU, and Red Sanders, of Vanderbilt, the South's able coaching staff, believe that the blond boy from Birmingham holds the key to the Gray situation. Harry, who tossed Alabama to a Rose Bowl victory over Southern California last year and himself into an all-American backfield berth, has been doing little passing in pre-game practice sessions, but this is probably because the coaches felt that the South's ground attack needed polishing much more than did Gilmer's buggy-whip arm. He can throw strikes to a stranger, but the backs have to be acquainted to make those running plays click.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 27—(AP)—Only three southern governors of the 14 invited plan to attend the annual Blue-Gray football game tomorrow and participate in attendant ceremonies, the Governor's office disclosed today.

Those who will be on hand are Gov. Ransome Williams, South Carolina; Gov. Millard Caldwell, Florida, and the host, Gov. Chauncey Sparks.

The Gray squad, although not as strong as it could have been had not so many of the Southern teams accepted New Year's Day bowl bids, stacks up as a very capable outfit. Such performers as Lowell Tew, of Alabama; Shorty McWilliams, of Mississippi State; Ray Poole, of Mississippi; Milner, of Duke, and Mancha, a 1945 All-American at Alabama, to name a few who are capable of playing some mighty fine football.

There is still a feeling, however, that the North or Blue squad may have a slight edge. The Blues surprised last year by defeating a favored South squad by a decisive 26-to-0 score. Carmen Falcone, of Pennsylvania University, the passing ace who was the main show for the Yankee eleven, is back again. Carmen, along with Phil Colella, of St. Bonaventure, a Little All-American selectee, and Slosberg and Nejman, of Temple are expected to give the big North squad plenty of punch, both in the air and on the ground.

The Blues are coached by Lynn Waldorf, of Northwestern; Bo McMillin, of Indiana, and Ray Morrison, of Temple.

This is the eighth meeting of the North and South All-Stars here in the Cradle of the Confederacy. The South has won four and the North three.

THE PROBABLE LINEUPS:

Hunter Heads Reds

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 27—(AP) Fred Hunter, Jr., youthful veteran of the Cincinnati Reds baseball organization, was elected President of the Columbia Reds of the South Atlantic League today. He was named at a directors' meeting to succeed Earl Blue, who recently was elected President of the league.

Another Injury Strikes Center of Tarheel Line

EDGEWATER, Miss., Dec. 27—(AP)—The North Carolina Tarheels, prepping here for their Sugar Bowl football game with Georgia, suffered another blow in the weakened middle of the line today with the practice injury of Sid Varney, 219-pound firist string right guard.

Varney, usually rated the outstanding individual in the Tarheel line, turned an ankle and suffered severe swelling. Coach Carl Snavely said it was uncertain whether Varney would be able to play at all on New Year's Day.

The injury to the right guard meant all three starters were missing from the middle of the line. Center Chan Highsmith is shelved with three vertebrae fractured in the season's last game. Left Guard Ralph Strayhorn's father is critically ill and Ralph had not appeared at the training camp late today.

Haywood Fowle, listed to start at tackle, missed practice today because of an ankle injury suffered yesterday. However, he is expected to be on the field at the kickoff.

Grant Loses In Net Meet

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27—(AP) Seymour Greenberg, of Chicago, seeded second, had little difficulty in defeating Dick Mouledous, New Orleans, 6-2, 6-2, in the opening round of the Sugar Bowl Tennis Tournament here today.

Buddy Behrens, Tampa, Fla., eliminated Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, Atlanta, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, and Frank Guernsey, Garden City, N. Y., third seeded, advanced to the second round by downing Glenn Gardner, New Orleans, 6-1, 6-2.

Cotton Sales

ATLANTA SPOT

Atlanta spot cotton middling 15/16-inch (uncompressed in warehouses) declined to 33.45 from 33.94, the previous close.

NEW ORLEANS RANGE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27—(AP)—Cotton futures declined here today under long liquidation and closing prices were barely steady, $2.35 to $3 a bale lower.

The principal factor behind the decline was attributed to breaks in the price of various commodities and to predictions that the cost-of-living index had reached its peak. Mills fixed prices and there was some profit-taking from the short side, but the market failed to hold recoveries and in late dealings eased off again.

4 Burn To Death As Bus Collides With Oil Truck

WORLAND, Wyo., Dec. 27—(INS)—At least four persons were burned to death and 13 others injured Friday when a Burlington Trailways bus collided with a truck on a bridge nine miles north of Worland.

The north-bound bus and a large semi-trailer truck of the type used in oil fields slid together on a bridge, apparently when both drivers applied their brakes.

Witnesses said the bus burst into flames almost instantly and the vehicle was a blazing mass of fire within seconds after the accident.

Washakie County Coroner Arland Veile said four bodies, burned beyond recognition, had been recovered from the still-burning bus.

Highway patrolmen were still searching the wreckage for two persons not accounted for.

Board Postpones Robinson Case

Trial before the City Fire Board of Joe A. Robinson, fireman suspended and charged with violations of rules and regulations of the Fire Department, as a result of the disappearance of valuable jewels from the room of a fire victim in the Winecoff Hotel, has been postponed until the next regular meeting of the Board.

Robinson was turned over to police by Fire Department officials, they said, after they learned he failed to turn in at fire headquarters several pieces of jewelry found in one of the fire-wrecked rooms. Robinson, police officials said, signed statements admitting he had failed to turn in the jewelry, and is now under police charges.

Two firemen, charged with reporting for duty on Christmas Eve while under the influence of intoxicants, pleaded guilty to the charges. R. J. Linder, stationed at Number 5 Engine House, was suspended for 10 days, while A. L. Almand, stationed at No. 8, was suspended for 30 days.

Robert Wilson, suspended Dec. 21, was found guilty of charges of being intoxicated, and dismissed from the Department.

Capt. John Carpenter was elected battalion chief to fill a vacancy caused by the retirement of Chief W. B. Fannin. Lts. E. M. Johnson, of No. 7; R. L. Ellington, of 19; T. H. Stallworth, of 11, and L. O. Kitchens, of 10, were elected captains. H. W. Rusk, of 5, Dudley Garrett, of 4, Joe H. Wright, of 1, and Charles A. Smith, of 4, were elected lieutenants.

Druggist Hurt In Auto Crash

MARIETTA, Dec. 27—(AP)—Virgil Jones, druggist, was under treatment Friday for facial cuts and bruises received in an automobile accident near Dalton Thursday night.

His automobile crashed into a bridge five miles south of Dalton.

Dr. A. W. Irwin, associate of Jones, said the druggist was driving alone at the time of the accident. Reports that Mrs. Jones was missing after the car crashed into the bridge prompted highway officers to search through the wreckage and in the nearby area.

Dr. Irwin said the reports probably originated from a request by Jones that officers find his wife and notify her of the accident.

Addition Sought For Police Records

Immediate construction of a $50,000 addition to the Atlanta Police Station to provide space for a modern, up-to-date record system will be asked of City Council by Ald. Ed A. Gilliam, Chairman of Council's Finance Committee.

Gilliam said yesterday he will seek the funds to facilitate erection of the building and will ask that Henry B. Andrews, City Land Agent, be authorized to negotiate for needed land adjacent to the station.

A new record system already has been designed for the city by the International Business Machine Company, but installation awaits adequate space, which the proposed new addition will provide.

Leahy Rejects Bid To Coach Rockets

CHICAGO, Dec. 27—(AP)—Frank Leahy, Notre Dame football coach, said today he had been offered the job as coach of the Chicago Rockets of the All-America Football Conference next season but said he definitely would remain with the Irish.

"I will be back at Notre Dame next year and as many years after that as they will have me," said Leahy, who was passing through Chicago en route to New Orleans and the Sugar Bowl game.

Stock Sales

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(AP)—Stocks generally steadied Friday behind selected rails and industrials although many leaders continued to operate in losing ground.

Early declines of fractions to two or more points, widespread before midday, ultimately were reduced in most cases or converted into advances of as much at the close. Dealings picked up after slowdowns and were active in the final half hour.

Bonds were mixed. In the curb minor gains were held by Burma, Ltd., Fansteel, Middle West Corp. and Cities Service. Backward were Continental Foundry, Electric Bond & Share, Niagara Hudson Power, Pantepec and St. Regis Paper. Turnover here was 420,000 shares versus 400,000 yesterday.

Living Costs On Way Down

Labor leaders who have been planning new wage demands on the basis of increased living costs have new cause to pause and consider.

For while living costs have risen, since the folding of OPA, to an all-time high in this country, indications are that those who have been saying the inflationary honeymoon is over are correct.

The past two days have seen almost unprecedented after-Christmas price reductions.

It is true, of course, that department stores for many years have held year-end clearance sales at which prices were slashed tremendously. And it is also true that these post-Christmas mark-downs have usually been reflected throughout the consumer goods markets.

This year, however, there is reason to believe that the trend, which is certainly more pronounced than usual, will be more than temporary.

For some weeks now production has been overcoming the scarcity which prevailed throughout and since the war. Goods have come back in ever-increasing quantities. Shelves and counters are no longer empty save in instances of inadequate distribution. Stocks are adequate and pipelines are full. There has been every indication, in short, that the sellers' market is at an end.

Especially pertinent is the decline, ranging upwards to 10 cents a pound, in butter and a sharp drop in the price of eggs. These are basic commodities. The annual production upsurge therein is still several months away. Thus the reduction in their prices logically can be attributed only to slackening demand, stemming from stiffening consumer resistance. And the latter, of course, reflects the thinner condition in which the nation's pocketbooks find themselves now that the Christmas impetus is over.

The pulse of the nation's economy is still steady. It is just that, now that the adrenalin of Yuletide buying has worn off, we are faced with the fact that much of the consumer demand which accumulated during the war has now been satisfied, especially in the soft goods field.

The result will be increased competition, with more and more emphasis on quality and price. And that will inevitably react to the consumer's benefit.

Thus it is that, instead of planning new wage demands based on increased costs of living, intelligent labor leaders are looking for arguments to insure the retention of previous gains.

Unless all indications are in error, we are in for more than a leveling off of the cost-of-living index.

It will be, not a depression or even a recession, but rather a return to the benefits of mass production working under the laws of supply and demand.

And it will bring an era of prosperity and satisfaction to labor and management alike . . . provided neither throws the nation's productive machinery out of gear with unreasonableness.

"Life Is Not a Bowl of Cherries"

Southern teams are en route to the various football bowls where they will engage teams from other sections in the annual football madness of Jan. 1.

We wish them all well. We especially trust that the University of Georgia will soundly defeat the esteemed University of North Carolina and that Georgia Tech will permit no Gaelic revels in Houston, they appearing, respectively, in the Sugar and Oil Bowl games. We will be tooting, too, for Tennessee in Miami.

But, we note, that life is not a bowl of cherries, even though life be filled with ever so many football bowls. The Southeastern Conference, which frankly subsidizes and pays a living wage to its football players, is restive and fearful lest all this filling of bowls become, as they say, a hollow mockery. There reportedly is a boycott developing on the part of teams in other sections, whose athletes are paid under the counter, instead of openly and above board. Apparently their faculty chairmen of athletics do not mind stultifying themselves by signing the papers stating none of their athletes is receiving any assistance.

The answer, of course, lies in the hysterical demand of the public to be allowed to pay any old price to see the bowl games. College football, which started out as a competition between neighboring colleges, has grown into a tremendous spectacle which the public, not without reason, accepts as being staged for its benefit.

In time it will settle down with those institutions which wish to go in for big-time, perhaps even professional, teams. The others will revert back to no football at all or to small teams without any gate appeal.

As yet there is no response to the no doubt cynical suggestion by the President of the University of Chicago that colleges subsidize stables of race horses and stage racing cards each Saturday, thereby eliminating the necessity of classroom work for the performers.

Chaining Dogs

Editor Constitution: I have been a subscriber of your publication for over 20 years, and I have been an ardent reader for over 30 years.

I have followed the action of the Council of Atlanta in their action toward dogs on the streets of Atlanta.

I am a firm believer in my friends of the canine race, much more than Sen. Guest related in his famous tribute to a dog; however, I lost a very fine brother just a year ago from taking rabies shots administered as the result of a fright of rabies administered unnecessarily.

All thinking people know that every living creature on this earth has its faults, and so do dogs. Every living creature is subject to disease, and so are dogs.

I personally witnessed a true demonstration of a dog's loyalty to its master less than a month ago that places him as high in my estimation as any hero that ever died for his master or country.

One morning about 10:30, a little girl, age five, was walking to town accompanied by a faithful hybrid dog who had been her companion about half of her life. The alarm was put out that a mad dog was in town and was jumping on everything that moved in its path. I saw this faithful dog push this little girl out of the path of this raging mad dog several times and attack it with all that it had for her safety. This hero was bitten by this mad dog several times, and its owner waited four days before he made up his mind to have this faithful dog given treatment that is necessary to save an infected animal. This treatment was administered, but on the fourteenth day after the infection, and the saving of the little girl from infection, I observed this faithful hero in the throes of rabies. He, too, was biting everything that moved within the glare of his glassy eyes; but the little girl, who was saved from this terrible experience, is living and happy. I have wondered had the dog been the one to have treatment given the human, would it have waited four days before making up its mind to do so.

The Winecoff Hotel fire in Atlanta has diverted attention from the chain-gang dog law of Atlanta. I have wondered if the City Council of Atlanta had been spending as much time inspecting and making ordinances protecting human beings from exposure to self-ish man-made traps which cook human beings whose ages are from the cradle to the grave, as they were spending chain-ganging the faithful dogs of Atlanta, if their services wouldn't have been more valuable to the citizens of the City of Atlanta who have elected them to regulate such things, and to the citizens of Georgia in general.

To Each His Bone

Editor Constitution: The City Ordinance requiring dogs to be penned up seems very foolish.

A dog is more apt to become vicious if kept penned up.

Our laws provide for a yearly inoculation against rabies for all dogs, a right to damages against the owner of a vicious dog, even though he does not know of the viciousness, for any injury caused by the dog, and a speed limit for automobiles, which should protect dogs and people.

These, properly enforced, coupled with dog owner's natural desire to protect his dog from injury, as well as to prevent him from injuring another dog or a person, minimizes any danger from dogs in Atlanta.

Some people consider dogs nuisances, or seem to have a great fear of being bitten by one. I, personally, don't like automobile horns, or the daily risk taken by me, as well as others, of being run over by an automobile. However, I anticipate that both the nuisance and hazard caused by them will remain, and certainly don't expect the City Council to pass an ordinance ruling all automobiles off the streets of Atlanta.

Dogs have been the pets and playmates of children since time immemorial. I hope that common sense will prevail, and that children will still be able to romp and play with their dogs and not have to pull them around on a rope like an unanimated toy.

BOYD B. GUILLEBEAU.

Dogs

Editor Constitution: In your issue of Nov. 28, there appeared an editorial — "The City's New Dog Ordinance" — in which you say: "We are inclined to believe that Atlanta's City Council was right when it passed an ordinance banning all save leashed dogs from the streets. To be worth while, however, it must be enforced. It is hoped that after Jan. 1, the city police will be able to see that this ordinance is observed, in addition to performing their already onerous duties."

Now, the ordinance provides that "the owner of a dog running at large on the streets shall be fined not more than $100 in the Recorder's Court or sentenced to the public works for 30 days, or either or both penalties to be imposed at the discretion of the Recorder."

In the first place, the ordinance cannot be enforced by our Police Department. Can you imagine a policeman chasing a dog, catching and taking him to the pound? Would he not be obligated, also, to corral the owner and give him a ride to police headquarters? To be promoted to the office of dogcatcher would not be highly gratifying to our police!

Surely the payment of the dog tax required by the City which carries with it vaccination against rabies, should entitle the owner and the dog to some consideration.

It is stated by the Health Department that there were only 51 cases of rabid dogs in the city last year and that only three of these dogs were tagged; and it is not claimed that any one of the three tagged ones bit anybody.

The public doubtless recalls the furor and general indignation occasioned recently by the blackjacking by a policeman of a little white dog on Broad Street which, as examination later disclosed, was not mad. The policemen of the city, generally, do not want to become dogcatchers or dog killers.

Seriously, it is a foregone conclusion that the new ordinance will not be enforced. The present ordinance, if efficiently enforced, should answer every reasonable purpose.

J. H. PORTER.

Atlanta.

We Got A Real Bargain

It was not so long ago we were speaking of our glorious allies, the Russians, and cheering them on in their magnificent stand at Stalingrad, Leningrad and before the gates of Moscow.

At the same time it was not possible to turn on the radio without hearing some swoon singer shrieking about blue birds over the white cliffs of Dover. And all of us were thrilled by the ability of a nation to take the bombing which Britain took—without quitting or wishing to quit.

Lend-lease was all right then. It was enabling the Russians and the British to keep on fighting without our being called into it. It was saving American lives by the thousands—every day these Allies held out and fought back.

But once we got in and began fighting our belly-achers began to complain about lend-lease.

When the war was done they really got up in arms and became very sarcastic and noble-minded about it, and discussed at length the sanctity of debt.

My own idea is that if we never got a nickel of it back, we got a bargain. There are perhaps a million American young men back at home today, alive and well, who otherwise would be dust and bones in the fields of a dozen countries, had it not been for lend-lease.

So I think it was a bargain. Not only that, my mind is made up on the subject and I can't be convinced of any other opinion about it. Whatever we spent bought us one of the greatest bargains of all time.

Payment Now comes the Government to announce that 70 percent of this debt has been marked "paid" and that we will recover substantially more than $10,000,000,000 in reverse lend-lease and payments.

It never was fully realized that we got hospitals, goods, services, food and many other items on lend-lease without cost in many countries, notably Australia and Britain.

Russia remains the one nation with whom agreements have not yet been made. Britain received 65 percent of the total lend-lease, for the simple reason that Britain was in it alone for long, weary months before anyone else came in to help. Russia got 23 percent of the total.

Russia has been "invited" to open negotiations.

We may assume the usual pyrotechnics may appear. The Russians will, probably, try to say we are seeking to collect dollars for blood.

There is a chance, because of the fine United Nations agreements, the Russians may settle, working out also the solution for Poland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia. But, one may assume, they will hardly miss the propaganda effect of needling us as collectors of dollars in payment for spilled Russian blood.

We will wait and see.

Meanwhile, the fair-minded person, weighing the enormous amount of fighting done with our goods before we were called upon, calculating the effect of our goods once we co-ordinated our own effort, will say, "Well done," and "Good."

We got a bargain.

And the fact we are getting back an estimated $10,000,000,000 is all the more proof of that fact.

More Infant Poise Day After Christmas

I noticed them, the little people from two to six years old, on Thursday, the day after Christmas. I saw them on the streets, in the stores and at lunch time. Some walking sedately with older folks, some proudly perched in the arms of that doting slave, daddy.

I thought, observing these little people, there was a new look as of added importance, an expression of increased poise, Je ne sais quoi, as it were.

It is understandable.

You see, for days these young'uns have listened to forecasts from the older members of their families as to the coming of Santa Claus. They have not disbelieved, exactly, but in the youngest mind there must be a form of doubt. Can it be possible, they must say to themselves, that some strange, friendly, laughing creature in a red coat, wearing long whiskers, is going to bring me a lot of most delightful things?

Then, they woke up on Christmas morning, walked quietly into the living room and—Wow! That old guy had actually come and unloaded his sack, right between the fireplace and the Christmas tree. It was all true!

All Christmas Day these little ones had been the central personalities in their families. They had been the most important of all. They had admired the gifts they received while smiling adults looked adoringly on. For a day, at least, the magic had worked, they had everything heart could desire. No wonder they gained a new and added sense of self-importance. No wonder there was that calm look of poised confidence about them on the day after. All the little family princes and princesses had realized anew their own impressive place in the scheme of family love and such things.

Our Own On Christmas morning there was but one grandchild in the Jones home. (Others came visiting later in the day.)

But this one young'un, a little more than two years old, was, inevitably, the center of attraction for us. Santa Claus had been generous. Everything a little girl could desire was stacked in front of the glittering Christmas tree. There were gifts from all the relatives on this side and many gifts, too, from the loved ones in England.

All of us adults were waiting, bathrobe clad, in the living room when her mother brought the baby in. The little eyes stared, amazed, at the pile of toys. It was, I suppose, too much to comprehend at first. Too startling. Unbelievable.

Anyway, she glanced, as though confused, all around the circle of smiling faces and then, instead of running to the toys, ran to her grandmother and buried her face in the loved lap.

Her mother had to lead her, gently, to the heaped gifts and help her to take and examine them one at a time.

But then the joy came into the baby eyes and the baby voice began to chatter and to sing.

She had a wonderful day—and so did we all.

She wouldn't go to sleep at bedtime. Too excited, still. I think it was midnight or later before they could get her, finally, calmed and quiet in her bed.

Pride of Possession Her great pride is a doll baby that cries. And she came, earnestly, into my bedroom on Thursday morning, seeking that Teddy Bear and one or two other scattered items, to "show Sara."

Sara is a neighbor, one of the best.

It was a grand Christmas and I only hope the youngest member of the household won't get too puffed up with the pride of possession as a result of Santa's generosity.

CHICAGO: "Dr. Blank, nationally known psychiatrist, suffers breakdown."—News item.

We cannot know what trouble dwells within the many million cells
Which constitute the human brain; no one is able to explain
What causes us to sit and brood or fall in some despondent mood
When cheerful thinking might disperse the clouds which dim our universe.

With books and sermons we are taught, by men of deep and cosmic thought,
To keep before us, as our goal, that virtue known as "self-control";
To practice on ourselves until we make the mind obey the will,
Which makes us wonder how that's done when lots of us have neither one.

Sad as it is, those who are strong in mind are very often wrong,
While those whose attitudes are right quite frequently are none too bright,
And, now and then, add to the lists of those who seek psychiatrists,
Who, faced with people such as these, sometimes contract the same disease.

So many problems are involved in life that most must go unsolved,
The happy people, so they say, are those who live from day to day,
Whose minds always ring up "No Sale," who do not "peep behind the veil,"
While wiser people stretch their necks and wind up being nervous wrecks.

Coming Back Within Reach?

BILLY ROSE

The World's Champion Liar

In a book about the old Barbary Coast, I came across a character called "Oofty Goofty." He would let you hit him with a baseball bat if you bought him a drink.

It sounds daffy, but I believe it. I'm inclined to believe any story about what a guy will do to get a drink. I guess it's because I've been watching people drink for a long time.

Ever since the Backstage Club in 1924, I've been running at least one place which had a bar on the premises. Over the years I've had a chance to watch the chiselers who trade hijinks for highballs. I've seen them do some pretty wacky things for a weedrop of the creature.

OCCASIONALLY I run into a wispy little geezer who eats razor blades if you give him rye for a chaser. There's a thirsty gent around this town who sings the Flower Song from "Carmen" while standing on his head. The music lovers line up the whiskeys for him on the bar.

My favorite hooch moocher was an old galoot who went by the name of Nevada Briggs. He used to lie for his liquor. He was a familiar nose around these parts when the legal brew was 3-point-2. I haven't seen him in years, but in my book he remains the All-Time Standing or Sitting Free-Style Champion Liar of the World. This mildewed Munchausen claimed he made up his own wowsers, but I think he was lying about that, too.

HE OPERATED like a penny gum machine—you put in a drink and out came a lie. I used to get a kick out of playing straight for him.

"Pretty windy out tonight," I'd begin.

He would pick up his shot of Old Whammo, toss it off neat, shudder delicately, and take off.

"Call this windy?" he would boom. "In West Texas this would be a calm. Stuck my head out of the window one night in Abilene. Wind gave me a clean shave. Another night a norther blew a herd of buffalo against the courthouse. Peeled 'em off the next morning and used 'em as circus posters."

"Some wind," I agreed.

Briggs looked down at his empty glass. I signaled the waiter. "How big a ranch did you have?" I asked, when he had refueled.

"NO TELLIN'," he answered. "Leased a corner of it to a couple of newlyweds. They went out to milk the cows one night. Their children came back with the milk. End of my ranch was smack against a mountain. On a still night, I'd yell 'Time to get up' before I went to bed. Eight hours later the echo would come back and wake me up."

AFTER THAT ONE, the waiter put the bottle on the table. That did it.

"Had a sheep dog on the ranch," he foghorned. "Mighty intelligent pup. Place caught fire one night. Dog dashed into the burnin' house and came out a minute later with the fire insurance policy wrapped in a wet towel.

"What did you do for relaxation?" I cued him.

"Went fishin'," said Briggs. "Remember one day when the pesky fish kept stealin' my bait. Just when I was fresh out, a big bull snake came slitherin' by with a fat worm in his mouth. Threw my jug of whiskey at him."

"I SUPPOSE you're going to tell me the snake dropped the worm and drank the whiskey," I cut in.

"Not only that," said Nevada. "Five minutes later the snake came back with another worm."

I got up from the table. "If you can spare a few minutes," I said to the old-timer, "drop in at my office tomorrow. I'm doing a new show. Maybe you can give me a few pointers on the advertising."

JACK TARVER

Hocus-Pocus, You're a Box-Top

Experiments conducted by the British Broadcasting Corporation prove that people may be hypnotized by television.

This is something distinctly new: Listeners have been put to sleep by radio in the past . . . but never before on purpose.

Still, it should not have come as a surprise. Weak-minded persons being most susceptible to hypnosis, where could you have expected to find more ideal subjects than among soap-opera addicts?

Thus may have been opened an entire new era of radio salesmanship, in which, at frequent intervals, the network announcer will pause "for a brief word from your local Svengali."

One can only hope sponsors will use the new medium with discretion, lest thousands be trampled in a mass hypnosis rush to their nearest grocer.

Too, it'll seem sort of strange, hearing gibberish like "Abra-ca-dabra" on the radio instead of familiar phrases such as "Seiuol-Elttil-Reliv-Noitol," which—as every listener currently recognizes—is Louie's Little Liver Lotion spelled backwards.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Taft Chooses Limelight Post in New Congress

WASHINGTON—Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, has denied that he is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1948, but it is impossible to place this kind of interpretation on his choice of a committee chairmanship in the new Congress.

Under the seniority rule as it applies, the senior Ohio Senator was in line for either one of two chairmanships when the Republicans take over control of the Senate in January.

One of these was the relatively unimportant Committee on Education and Labor. The other was the top-ranking Finance Committee, long regarded as the most influential committee in either House of Congress because of its jurisdiction over revenue and tariff legislation.

Sen. Taft, often mentioned as a leading presidential aspirant two years hence, chose the lesser chairmanship. It was a decision which no member ordinarily would be expected to make.

Sen. Walter F. George, of Georgia, for example, gave up the chairmanship of the powerful Foreign Relations Committee to take over the leadership of the Finance group. He found the latter body preferable even to Foreign Relations, with all of the prestige the office carries in shaping American foreign policy.

Motives It is proper, therefore, to look into Sen. Taft's motives in making the choice he did.

From present indications, labor legislation will constitute the most important subject to be taken up in the new Republican-controlled Congress. There is a nation-wide demand for revision of laws pertaining to labor and strikes. It grows out of the recent crisis brought on by the coal strike.

The basis of any legislation written on the subject will come from the Senate Committee on Education and Labor. As Chairman of that Committee, Sen. Taft would get the credit or the blame for what is accomplished.

If he is able to write a sound, constructive law, his stock will be boosted tremendously in the country. If he fails, it may work against him.

But the Ohio Republican was evidently willing to take this gamble.

Moreover, the committee chairmanship will probably offer the best sounding board in Congress for getting his views before the country. That is because labor legislation is going to be very much in the limelight during the months ahead.

To Liberalize For another thing, Sen. Taft is said to be anxious to soften his reputation as an arch conservative. He will have an opportunity to do that in writing a new formula for labor-management relations.

If he succeeds in presenting a bill for final passage that is generally acceptable, and, what is more important, effective, he will have done much to advance his claim to the Republican presidential nomination.

It is a gamble he is taking, but it is the sort of gamble a man takes when he is desperately seeking something. The stakes are high enough to assume the risk.

Thus far, former Gov. Harold Stassen, of Minnesota, is the only Republican 1948 hopeful who has announced his candidacy. What caused him to be forthright about it, whereas the others are playing the shrinking violet game, is the difference in his position.

Excellent Chance Sen. Taft will be provided with an excellent sounding board for getting his views over the country. He has this by virtue of his membership in the Senate, as well as his chairmanship of the temporarily critical Education and Labor Committee.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, regarded as the leading GOP contender, has his sounding board in his present office, to which he has just been elected for another four-year term.

The same is true of Gov. Earl Warren, of California; Sen. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan.

Alone among the Republican hopefuls, Gov. Stassen has no such sounding board. It was necessary for him to create one through the establishment of a campaign headquarters in Washington. And if he did that it was more or less incumbent upon him to make a public announcement of his candidacy.

That explains why the former Minnesota Governor came out ahead of the others in acknowledging his presidential aims. The others can afford to wait. To stay in the limelight he had to act.

U. S. Investigates Charges Butter Market Manipulated

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—Agriculture Department investigators Friday studied recent transactions in the New York butter market to determine whether Thursday's nine-cent-a-pound price break reflected unlawful manipulation.

They acted on orders from Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. New York consumer groups had complained that prior to the break the market had been manipulated by interests representing dairymen who had engaged in butter trading to prevent a decline in producer milk prices in January.

Anderson said through a spokesman he does not believe, as some trade sources have predicted, that other food and farm products are in for immediate price setbacks.

The spokesman said Anderson believes farm and food prices will make slow and orderly adjustments to somewhat lower levels as supplies increase and wartime markets disappear.

In ordering the New York inquiry, Anderson took the position that prices of butter there apparently had failed to make downward adjustments which normally come at this time of the year when milk production starts a seasonal increase that reaches its peak in May and June.

The investigation centered on assertions that traders representing dairymen had bought heavily of butter in recent weeks in an attempt to influence the January price of milk sold in the New York market.

Under a joint Federal-State marketing program, the producer price of milk for any month is tied to price levels of butter and some other dairy products during a previous 30-day period ending on the 24th of the month. Thus the January price of milk would be determined, under his formula, by the prices of butter and other dairy products from Nov. 25 through Dec. 24.

During this period, prices of butter held firm in the New York market but weakened considerably in Chicago. The price break in New York came the first market day after the price-determining period.
